

My Claude Usage Strategy

Student · Marketing & Research · Career Prep · Daily User · Learning-focused

RECOMMENDED PRIMARY MODEL

Haiku

Claude Haiku

Fast, lightweight. Quick lookups and simple rewrites.

- Instant responses
- Most token-efficient

BEST FIT FOR YOU

Sonnet

Claude Sonnet

Balanced power for learning, research, and career tasks. Your everyday workhorse.

- Deep explanations
- Resume & cover letters

Opus

Claude Opus

Highest reasoning. Reserve for complex, high-stakes tasks.

- Strategic analysis
- Use sparingly

WHY SONNET FITS YOU

Explains concepts clearly

Breaks down complex marketing or business topics in student-friendly language.

Strong research support

Summarizes, synthesizes, and structures research far better than basic tools.

Career prep powerhouse

Writes polished resumes, cover letters, and LinkedIn summaries with nuance.

Business planning support

Helps analyze markets, draft business model canvases, and plan strategies.

RECOMMENDED EFFORT LEVELS

Low effort

Quick lookups & definitions

Fast definition, synonym, or fact-check during study sessions.

Standard (your default)

Daily learning & drafts

Most tasks: explaining concepts, drafting resume bullets, summarizing articles, business ideas.

High effort

Important career documents

Final resume drafts, cover letters for target companies, detailed marketing analysis.

Max effort

High-stakes strategy work

Full business plan, competitive market deep-dive, or academic capstone project structuring.

MY PERSONALIZED CLAUDE WORKFLOW

Task	Best Model	Effort	Reason
Understanding a concept	Sonnet	Standard	Clear, nuanced explanations with examples
Summarizing research paper	Sonnet	Standard	Great at distilling long content accurately
Resume bullet writing	Sonnet	High	Career docs deserve extra polish
Cover letter (first draft)	Sonnet	Standard	Fast first draft you then refine
Cover letter (final version)	Sonnet	High	High stakes — extra reasoning pays off
Quick definition / fact check	Haiku	Low	Fast and sufficient for simple lookups
Marketing strategy brainstorm	Sonnet	Standard	Generates creative, structured ideas well
Full business plan	Opus	High	Complex task needing deep reasoning
Interview prep (mock Q&A)	Sonnet	Standard	Realistic responses that sharpen answers
LinkedIn profile rewrite	Sonnet	High	Professional visibility — worth extra effort

BIGGEST MISTAKES TO AVOID

- ! Using Opus for everything. It's overkill for daily studying. You'll hit limits faster with little benefit on routine tasks.
- ! Sending vague prompts. Say: 'Write 3 bullets for my internship at X, focusing on marketing skills for a brand manager role,' not just 'write me a resume.'
- ! Accepting the first output. Always ask Claude to improve or rewrite. The second or third version is usually far better.
- ! Not using Claude for learning. Ask it to quiz you, create flashcards, or explain in simpler terms. It's an incredible tutor.
- ! Skipping context. Tell Claude your goal, audience, and constraints. More context = sharper output.

FINAL RECOMMENDATION

If you could use only one model + one effort level

Use Claude Sonnet at Standard effort for 90% of your day. It's powerful enough to explain complex concepts, write career documents, and support research — without burning through your usage limits. Switch to High effort only when a document matters for your actual job applications or business plans. Reserve Opus for that one big project per month.
